At the core of the workstation is a new powerful AI engine called Adobe Sensei, which powers every single filter in Photoshop. While this technology has been around on the Android and Windows 10 versions of the software, it's only now being brought to macOS. It will enable you to make powerful combinations of artistic effects that simply weren't possible before. And if you've seen the MovieMagic effect showcased in Apple's Sequential video editor, you'll know that it looks fantastic. Plus, it allows you to manipulate the direction of people's gazes in seconds. Design-Related Features:

The new possibilities within design-related features include live text and layer mapping, AI-powered blending modes, AI-powered smart objects, enhanced vector masks and more. With options such as Layer Mapping, which takes a smart path to preserve curves and automatically fills in holes, you can even create instant colour-pop effects. Image Rotation and Animation:

While not all features within Filters may initially use AI, we all know that it's going to come into Photoshop for mac in the next few years. And these new features, such as Rotation and Animation, are going to be powered by the new AI in Adobe Sensei, which will help rotate and speed up the imaging. And the best part about the new filters is that they're going to be powered the same way, meaning that you get the same features in both versions.

As such, there should be a clear invitation to other people: the event objective, phrases such as "Lunch and Learns" are often not clear enough, so make sure you separate people into their desired groups and give them a chance to find out about your event. Make sure to clearly define objectives and invite people to them and work on topics and notes that are interesting to others. Presentation slides are all about attention. A huge set of shapes, bright colors, moving pictures, pop-ups and timelines play with people's attention. Make your presentation easy to follow and adopt to your audience.
